

SMART SUIT FOR MIDWINTER WEAR

This suit of henna velveteen, with its attractive collar of Australian opossum and its braiding in self color, is a wise choice for the woman who desires a suit for all occasions. The coat is made on rather straight box lines with flare cuffs on the sleeves. The skirt is plain.

WILSON IS STILL SILENT OVER TREATY

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE) WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—President Wilson still maintains absolute secrecy concerning his plans for the future of the treaty of Versailles.

During a conference yesterday with Secretary Tumulty which lasted more than an hour, the president did not once mention the treaty, Secretary Tumulty said today.

The president discussed domestic questions and pending legislation. Secretary Tumulty announced today that he had discussed the inaugural plans yesterday with the president, who had evinced a lively interest in the ceremonies and had expressed desire to participate in every way.

"The president was looking extremely well," Secretary Tumulty said. This was the first time Secretary Tumulty had seen the president for several weeks. The president sat at his desk during the conference and for the first time in several weeks went to his desk unaided by his cane," Secretary Tumulty said.

The plans for the inaugural, as contemplated by the White House call for the president-elect to call at the White House on the morning of March 4. With President Wilson he will ride up Pennsylvania avenue to the capitol. Here President Wilson will take a seat in the stands with the president-elect and will stand by his side when he is sworn in and will listen to his inaugural address.

The incoming president and the outgoing president will then lead a parade down Pennsylvania avenue.

At the White House the outgoing president and Mrs. Wilson will give a luncheon to the new president.

The new president will then review the inaugural parade and the Wilson family will go to their new home here, making their final farewell to public life.

It was announced at the White House that these plans are subject to any changes that President-elect Harding or the inaugural committee may desire.

These plans also are contingent upon any change for the worse in the president's health between now and March 4. Should the president suffer a relapse from what Dr. Grayson terms his now good condition, it is doubtful if he will attempt the strenuous ordeal of the inaugural ceremonies.

COAL OPERATORS PAY U. S. CLERKS

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE) WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Clerks in the Washington office of the U. S. geological survey were paid $400 and $450 monthly by the National Coal Association, an organization of bituminous coal operators, to gather coal statistics for the association. W. B. Reed, its secretary, testified today before the senate reconstruction and production committee.

Reed declared that the officials of

TEACHER SHOT

BY HUSBAND

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Because she refused to give up her position as a teacher in the schools of Bartlett, a small town near Chicago, Frank Ligregni, 22, shot and killed his 28-year-old wife, Genevieve. Ligregni was employed as a chemist in Chicago and his wife's work made it necessary for them to live apart most of the time. Ligregni could not endure the separation.

FIUME IS BLOCKADED

MILAN, Dec. 22.—An Italian army and fleet began an absolute blockade of Fiume today to isolate the city from the rest of the world following Gabriele d'Annunzio's rejection of Gen. Cavaglia's ultimatum calling upon him to surrender.

One hundred and twenty of d'Annunzio's legionnaires have been landed from a torpedo boat at Castelvener and Zara on the Dalmatian coast, according to information from Trieste.

The regular Italian garrisons at Castelvener and Zara retired. D'Annunzio announced that he would send a large expedition to oppose the cession of Dalmatia to Jugo-Slavia.

STEAM COAL PRICES REDUCED

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE) CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Continued mild weather and the curtailment of activities by many coal-mining industries are assigned as causes of radical reductions in prices of steam coal announced by dealers of the central west today. In some instances prices were cut almost in half. Supply is greater than the demand, according to George W. Reed, vice president of the Peabody Coal company, one of the leading dealers in this section.

Whiskey Smuggled Through Pipe Line Over Mexican Border

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE) MEXICO CITY, Mex.—The very latest tale reaching the Mexican capital about the whiskey merchants of the border is like a chapter from a thrilling dime novel. It is asserted that smugglers of whiskey from Mexico into Texas and Arizona have built pipe lines across the border and pump bourbon, rye and other liquors from "wet" bases on this side to receiving stations on the "dry" side.

The pipe lines do away with the fuss and labor—and also the danger of getting whiskey over the line in bottles and barrels. Instead of dodging border guards the smuggler now sits at his ease while the pipe line does the work. It is asserted that this story about pipe lines is true and not fiction.
